All this week we are celebrating 1984's 3rd anniversary, so I will be at the arcade until 11pm on Saturday.

That being said, I'll be there, I'll just probably be a little late.

Wednesday night? I can stop by if they are open after 10. I'll probably be trashed...just a warning. I had to stop by there a few weeks ago and shoot the breeze with Jason :laugh:

I have a dance thing I go to on Wednesday nights at Brunos. I usually end up drinking too much and then I can walk to 1984 from there. Brunos closes at 10ish and kick me outa there.

Last time I went to 1984 after Brunos though they kicked me outa there too :P

well, i swapped rear gears in my car. it now has 2.75 rear gears, yes, you read that right, 2.75's. i may bring my grill and show up early and make burgers for everyone if we can get an idea of how many of us there will be.

Changed from what?

wow 2.75 what where they? thought mine wrere short at 3.31. what are you trying to do hit a better top speed?:woohoo:

I think

=====

Re:July 12 Midnight madnes who is going?

Posted by flyinhillbilly - 2008/07/10 18:38

they were 3.70's. i'm trying to keep the turbo loaded a little better, and maybe the chassis won't tweak up as bad when i hit the two step and build boost at the tree, which i hope will help my traction issues. it should still leave plenty hard, turbos love load.

Coincedently, I was born on January
11th.....

1984. ;)

I might possibly be there to spectate as my car is broken / being modded.

Re:July 12 Midnight madnes who is going?

Spectaterating.

Re:July 12 Midnight madnes who is going?

Posted by slwmaro - 2008/07/11 08:07

If you can hook good enough, without power the plan should work pretty good with the taller gears. I tried it years ago in my truck and didnt go over as well, but traction was a bitch too. Should work though, that thing will pull on the top end like an Is motor with those gears and turba.

Re:July 12 Midnight madnes who is going?

Posted by Devin - 2008/07/11 08:52

Taller gears should mean less torque to the wheels at launch, but a higher speed down the track, so it really should help with your launch, since there will simply be less torque there.

Since you are more or less sliding your way down the track as it is, less torque in this case SHOULD mean a faster trap time.

Re:July 12 Midnight madnes who is going?

Posted by slwmaro - 2008/07/11 14:57

Only bad part about tall gear is when they do brake loose (and it is a pretty fine line) the really break loose.

I am shooting for 11's on street tires Sat night.:laugh:
